A PLEA FOR THE POSTS

At Wooster Square and for the Children Too—A Citizen's Appeal. To the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURIER:—And why remove the posts at the entrance to Wooster Square? To accommodate baby carriages is the only reason given in the case. Now, I for one, and plenty more who pay taxes for property about Wooster Square will endorse our plea, enter our earnest protest against the removal of the posts. There is no need of it in the first place for there is plenty of room for the baby carriages. No one has yet proposed removing the posts at the entrance to the old green except at the pump, where the whole city congregates on account of the stopping of so many electric street car lines there. Wooster Square is as it is now, a beautiful and tolerably quiet spot. Pedestrians certainly do not object to the posts. One great beauty of the new green has been its seclusion and privacy, but this is rapidly passing away and the children and little tots who frequent this green are in danger of being driven from this pleasant spot, if it is to be overrun by all kinds of people, including tramps, who seem of late to favor this spot, exceedingly, much to the regret and alarm of many anxious mothers. Let the children have a safe and quiet spot in the city where they may have their little sports and innocent games and not be subject to annoyance and danger. Taxpayers on large amounts of property ought to have some voice as to the parks. Columbus discovered America, but we doubt if he would discover any resemblance to himself in the patriotic statue which stands on the park. And also must we have peanut stands all over our public squares?

As to the baby carriages there are dozens on the new green every nice day. The posts are no interference. CITIZEN.

ASHES TO ASHES.

A Clergyman's Opinion.

(From the Union.)

The Parish News, published in Philadelphia, has the following by the Rev. S. D. McConnell, D. D., rector in St. Stephen's church in that city: "A month ago it became the duty of the rector to officiate at a funeral where the body was cremated. Instead of committing it to the ground he committed it to the consuming and purifying fire. For a long time he has believed that this is the right mode of disposing of our dead. After once seeing it done this belief has been deepened into an abiding conviction. It is so decent, so reverent, and above all so final, that beside it sepulture has no argument for itself. The horror of sepulture is the awful burden which it lays upon the imagination of those who survive. To picture the loved and revered body changing slowly but surely into the horrible thing which decay compels, is, to many, an intolerable burden. Cremation saves from this."

"Why there should be supposed to be Christian objection to it is difficult to understand. Whether a body be consumed in a few minutes in the roseate hue of a rector or in forty years in a grave, burning it is in either case. Chemically the two processes are absolutely identical, save only in the length of time required. Ashes to ashes is the end in either case. The strange notion that it should be thought to touch in any way upon the question of the resurrection of the body seems amazing."

"It would be a gain from every point of view if the church would frankly accept and endorse cremation as a fitting thing. In the country where a sweet 'God's acre' can be had and kept, it might well continue to be used as a burial place. But in a great city, where a place to lay one's dead must be bought in the midst of a great cemetery, and must be paid for at a price which will allow a round dividend to be paid to the stockholders of the cemetery; when a permanent resting place cannot be guaranteed against the encroachment of a growing city, so remote and inaccessible that in the vast majority of cases the grave can only be visited at rare intervals, if at all, there to melt into a sea of corruption, what but the stolid inertia of old custom could compel a continuance of the habit?"

"How much better in every way if some provision were made at points in the city convenient to the accessible to all, where the bodies of our dear dead could be at once reduced to ashes and then the urns containing them be placed in niches in the church walls or cloister, or in a Columbarium to be built beside God's house. There they would abide through the years in the midst of the incense of prayers and praises of those surviving, waiting for the general resurrection in the last day, through our Lord Jesus Christ, when the corruptible bodies of those who sleep in Him shall be changed and made alike unto His own glorious body, according to the mighty workings whereby He is able to subdue all things to Himself."

Training School for Nurses.

The annual reunion of the alumnae of the Connecticut Training school will be held at the Nurses' Home on Howard avenue, this city, Tuesday, August 6, from 4 to 8 p. m.

A NEW SUNDAY TRAIN.

Will leave for New London at 7:50 a. m. and return at 6:10 p. m.

In accordance with the strongly expressed desire of the constituency of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for an additional Sunday train between New Haven and New London, which will afford facilities for visiting the shore resort points lying between those terminals, the management has decided to furnish such a train, and it will begin running on next Sunday, July 21. This train will leave New Haven at 7:50 a. m. and will be due to arrive at New London at 9:45 a. m. Returning, it will leave New London at 4:15 p. m., arriving in New Haven at 6:10 p. m.

EXPLAINED.

Confidence in Their Product Led the Shakers to Make an Unusual Offer. People of this day and generation are not disposed to give things away. When therefore the Mount Lebanon Shakers recently stated that anyone could get a bottle of Digestive Cordial by calling in person at their New York office, it excited a great deal of talk.

One of the leading dailies of the Metropolis sent a reporter to find out what was meant. It developed that the preparation in question has proven beneficial in so large a majority of cases that nine-tenths of the people who are sufficiently anxious to call for a sample, find so much relief that they continue the product as a use and tell their friends about it. As a result a very large demand has been created.

The Shakers have a long record of success as inventors and their various medicinal products have always enjoyed a high reputation. The Digestive Cordial is not only nourishing in itself, but it digests other foods when taken as directed.

Sleepless nights, spots before the eyes and a sense of heaviness after eating, loss of weight and general weakness are among the common symptoms of indigestion which it promptly relieves, and it is gratifying to know that such a positive and harmless remedy as Digestive Cordial should have at last been devised.

July 17.—A good program was given by North Haven grange on Tuesday evening under the direction of Dr. Goodwin, lecturer. The young ladies gave good recitations and piano music. The attendance was large.

Mr. R. W. Smith found one of his valuable three-year-old colts dead in the pasture. Only a short time since Mr. Smith lost a cow. Misfortunes seem to never come singly.

Rev. Mr. Veits of Hamden will conduct the service at Chiltonville chapel next Sunday evening.

Mr. C. B. Foote will occupy Rev. Mr. Clarke's place in Whitteville on Sunday next. Rev. Mr. Clark will preach for Rev. Mr. Lathrop in North Haven.

The National band of Wallingford will give a grand concert in Memorial Hall, North Haven, on Tuesday evening, July 23, 1895, assisted by the popular soprano, Mrs. F. J. Hall, with the accomplished pianist, Mrs. Carrie Penn Beers of Wallingford, as accompanist. The opening piece by the band will be "Reminiscence March." The band will appear in uniform. A medley selection of southern songs will be rendered, old airs, etc. Admission, 25 cents; doors open at 7; concert begins at 8.

Mr. George F. Blakestone, son of the late Mr. Stephen Blakestone of Montwese, died Wednesday morning, aged 44 years and 5 months.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

A Waterbury Little Boy's Skull Crushed by a Fall. Waterbury, July 17.—Freddie, six years old, son of Frederick B. Waible of this city, met with a horrible accident last night, from which he died this forenoon. The family lived on the third floor of a block, and a set of flying rings had been hung on the veranda. Upon these the boy had been exercising and swung once too often. He swung out over the edge of the veranda and suddenly lost his hold and fell thirty feet to the ground. He struck on the concrete walk and his skull was crushed. He did not recover consciousness.

Retail Butcher Meeting To-night.

Every retail butcher in this city and vicinity is invited and urged to attend a public meeting this evening in room 25 insurance building at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is expected and no retail butcher should be absent. A general discussion of trade matters will be in order. One of the ex-presidents of the society will be present. All retail butchers are welcome.
